13 Die As Planes Collide

Flaming Death For Them West Of Tucson In A Refuel Operation

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 17—(AP)—A collision in flight of two giant planes engaged in the U. S. Air Forces newest refueling operation has ended in flaming death for 13 airmen.

Ten others parachuted to safety after the four-motor craft smashed together yesterday afternoon 50 miles west of Tucson over the southern Arizona desert.

The planes, a B-29 tanker and a B-50 bomber, engaged in a routine refueling operation, were seen to erupt in flames and plunge to the ground five miles north of the Papago Indian village of Silakya on the Sells reservation. The tanker is believed to have exploded.

Listed among the missing was Staff Sgt. Harold V. Schulze, a gunner, of Norton, Kas. He was with the 63rd Bomb Squadron.

1st Lt. Granville W. Goodman of Caruthersville, Mo., navigator aboard the B-50, was listed as dead while another Missourian, 1st Lt. William R. Dubishar, bombardier, of Williamsburg, Mo., was one of the B-50 survivors.

Some of the crew members jumped and may have reached the ground safely, but were apparently caught in a deluge of flaming gasoline that sprayed over the area.

The air force listed some of the 13 men as missing since identifications had not been completed, but they were presumed dead.

Robert Moore, a reporter for the Tucson Arizona Daily Star who flew to the scene, reported there were indications all of the airmen attempted to get out of the flaming craft.

Their blackened and smashed bodies, most of them wearing portions of parachutes, were scattered over an area a half mile around the crash scene. Bits of flaming debris were found as far away as a mile.

Rescue Team To Scene

An air rescue team rushed to the scene found some of the dazed survivors standing in two groups. Five of them were a short distance west of the fallen planes. Two others east. The remainder were scattered.

All were rushed to the base hospital at Davis-Monthan field. Eight suffered only minor scratches and could walk. Two had broken ankles but were otherwise reported all right.

Steven Ramon, a Papago Indian living in Silakya, witnessed the crash.

He spotted what he thought was one plane about noon (MST) yesterday.

"There was a flash," he said. "The plane started to come down toward the ground. Then I saw that there were two planes. They landed very close together, about 10 miles away from me."

Moore, a former air force captain said three engines from the planes were demolished or consumed by the heat as he could locate only five. He described the crash scene as follows:

"In the center of the crash were two holes in the ground, one about eight feet deep and one five feet deep. They were about 100 feet apart.

"In the main crash area a piece of fuselage stuck out of the ground like a monument. Around it were five bodies.

"Eventually some of the men escaped from their plane only to be caught in a deluge of flaming gasoline. Some of the shroud lines of the parachutes were completely burned away. Some of the chutes were also burned."

Davis-Monthan officials reported it was the first fatal accident during a refueling operation suffered by any of their planes.

They were unable to give any details on what caused the crash. Search planes located the wreckage within a few hours after the first alarm was turned in by the Civil Aeronautics Administration tower at the Tucson Municipal airport. It reported a column of smoke.

Ground parties had great difficulty reaching the crash scene over the rugged desert terrain.

Report 'Secret Meet' With Japanese

MOSCOW, Nov. 17—(AP)—The Soviet press reported today a "secret meeting of Gen. Douglas MacArthur with representative Japanese political parties" at which they were told that America considers Japan her ally in a coming world war.

The dispatch by Tass, official Soviet news agency, said the statement was made by MacArthur's political advisor, William J. Sebald, to leaders of the Japanese Socialist, Liberal, and popular Democratic parties.

No Call For Congress to be Back Early

Expects The Excess Profits Tax Plan To be Approved

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—President Truman, outwardly happy and scrappy, evidently was ready today to renew battle with the new and old congresses for his "Fair Deal" program.

On the political front, Mr. Truman discounted the election victories of Republicans, reiterated his backing for Secretary of State Acheson, refused to back-track on his controversial domestic program and dodged questions about whether he may run again.

The President told his first post-election news conference yesterday he expects the lame duck session of congress meeting Nov. 27 to approve an excess profits tax, another big chunk of military appropriations, statehood for Alaska and Hawaii and an extension of rent controls.

Almost nobody in congress—including his own legislative lieutenants—shared Mr. Truman's optimism on this score.

The President said he was not calling Congress back early, as he had said he might do, because the request for more funds to finance the fighting in Korea and the nation's military buildup still is being whipped into shape.

There was every sign that congress would approve any such measure.

But senate action is doubtful on any excess profits tax bill that might be passed in the house early in December. Senator Taft of Ohio, who heads the Republican policy committee, has said he doesn't believe any action will be in the short session.

May be Delaying Tactics

Southern Democratic delaying tactics may crop up against the house-approved bills to grant statehood to Hawaii and Alaska. The Republicans may help out on this.

Chairman Maybank (D-SC) already has predicted that the senate banking committee won't act on rent control extension in the lame duck session. Controls are due to expire Dec. 31 except in communities which take positive action to extend them for six months.

Despite Republican victories in last week's election, Mr. Truman made it plain that when he reports to the new 82nd congress in January on the state of the nation he will wrap up again all of the "Fair Deal" proposals he said he had been making since World War II ended.

His own advisers seemed likely to tell the President—if he asks—that he will have a much smaller chance in congress with increased Republican strength to get action on such proposals as repeal of the Taft-Hartley act, compulsory health insurance, the Brannan farm subsidy payment plan.

Gen. Bradley Would Trade Bomb for Righteousness

ATLANTA, Nov. 17—(AP)—America's top military man offered today to trade the atom bomb for "a genuine course of righteousness in the world," and "all military power for a century of peace."

"But no easy trades are on the open market," Gen. Omar Bradley said in a speech prepared for 500 members of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association meeting here. "We must earn the world righteousness we seek,

November 23 Thanksgiving

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 17—(AP)—Gov. Forrest Smith today proclaimed next Thursday as Thanksgiving day.

He listed many blessings to be thankful for—"continued prosperity both in business and in agriculture, a bountiful return for industrious labor and continued progressive development of our great state."

He urged citizens to go to church Thanksgiving day and pray for "divine guidance in the trying times ahead as this country's leaders strive for peace and goodwill throughout the world to the end that all Missouri families with young men and women away from home in the armed forces may soon be united once again."

Again Rejects India Protest

Red China States Indians Have No Right to Interfere

By Harold K. Mills

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 17—(AP)—Communist China brusquely rejected a second Indian protest at the military invasion of Tibet, an official government spokesman said today.

Peiping's reply to an Indian note calling the use of force against peaceful Tibetans an unwarranted act further endangering world peace was received today.

Red China declared India had no right to "interfere" in what the Communists consider an internal Chinese affair.

The answer placed before prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru's government a tough decision—whether to firmly support the Tibetan neighbor's charges of Red Chinese aggression now before the United Nations, or to try to sidestep the issue in an effort to cling to a neutral position in East-West world politics.

The spokesman said the Peiping note still was being studied. But informed sources said it was "difficult to understand how India could now fail to join in support of Tibet's plea for help from the United Nations."

Nehru revealed in parliament today his government's decision to maintain a "highly efficient and highly mobile" army in view of the unsettled conditions in central Asia. He said the army would be maintained in strength, without overhauling the need for overall government economies.

The text of the Chinese Communist note was not made public here immediately.

Late Casualty List Has Thirty-five in Death Toll

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—The defense department identified 38 Korean war casualties in a list (No. 153) published today. The total included 35 killed in action or died of wounds and three injured in accidents.

Jack Alpert on Local Draft Board

Mrs. Verna E. Williams, clerk of the Pettis County Selective Service board, has been notified that Jack Alpert, 506 West Fourth street, has been appointed by the President of the United States to serve as a member of Selective Service Board No. 84, of Pettis county.

Mr. Alpert will replace Mayor Herb Studer, who recently resigned.

William Bunn, chairman of the board, who also resigned a short time ago, has not been replaced.

Innocent Plea Is Made by Oscar Collazo

Accused in Plot To Assassinate The President

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—Oscar Collazo, accused of two capital crimes for his part in attempting to assassinate President Truman, pleaded innocent at his arraignment in U. S. district court today.

After hearing the four-count indictment read, Collazo told district judge Henry A. Schweinhaut:

"I plead not guilty, your honor." Those were the only words spoken by the small, meek looking Puerto Rican fanatic. The 37-year-old Collazo was neatly dressed in a brown suit.

Leo A. Rover, chief of three court-appointed defense attorneys argued vigorously against rushing Collazo to trial. U. S. district attorney George Morris Fay told Judge Schweinhaut that the prosecution was not attempting to take the Collazo case out of order but "we do insist that the government is entitled to a speedy trial."

After hearing the attorneys, Judge Schweinhaut fixed no trial date. He said, however, that he did not believe the case should be delayed until Feb. 15, a date suggested by Rover.

Might Plead Insanity

Rover hinted that the defense might rely on an insanity plea to save Collazo from the electric chair. He said the defense lawyers are concerned "with the mental condition of the defendant."

Murder and housebreaking with intent to murder are the chief charges against Collazo.

One White House guard was killed in the gunfire Collazo participated in Nov. 1 in front of Blair House.

Rover told the court that the defense lawyers have moved as rapidly as possible since their appointment and added that they were confronted with "serious problems, particularly of law."

To advance the Collazo case above other pending matters, Rover continued, "would not be consonant with the fine traditions of American justice."

The entire proceedings today required only about 20 minutes. Collazo had been brought to the court house from the city jail well in advance of his formal arraignment.

Unusual precautions were taken by marshals. Persons entering the courtroom were given a careful once-over by the marshals and some persons were asked their business. During Collazo's appearance in the courtroom, marshals appeared to be everywhere but there was no incident of any kind.

Collazo stood up when the clerk called "Oscar Collazo." The clerk then started to read the indictment. Judge Schweinhaut interrupted:

"Does this defendant speak English, Mr. Rover?"

"Oh, yes," Rover replied. The six words the defendant spoke "I plead not guilty, your honor" were in English with a slight Spanish accent.

After being held in the lock-up in the courthouse basement for about half an hour, Collazo was taken back to jail to await his next court appearance.

Takes up Fair Publicity Duties

Carl McIntire, a newspaper man in Missouri for 15 years, for the past three and one-half years editor of the Carrollton Daily Democrat, today entered upon his duties as publicity director for the Missouri State Fair.

In addition to his duties he will serve in a similar capacity for the State Department of Agriculture at Jefferson City. He is there today and will attend a meeting of the Missouri Press Association, reporting for duty in Sedalia Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. McIntire have two sons, Carl, aged 10, and Dennis, aged 5. He will be located in the administration building on the fair grounds. His family does not plan to join him here at the present time.

Inspection on Air Academy Site Nov. 22

Gen. Spaatz And Board Members to Be Here Then

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—The air force disclosed today it has narrowed down to 30 the number of sites under consideration for its proposed new academy.

A total of 354 had been suggested.

Air Force officials notified Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) that the air academy site selection board soon will make a personal inspection of the sites still in the running.

They include: Missouri—Illinois—St. Louis—Weldon Springs; St. Louis—Altou; Kansas City; Sedalia.

The proposed new academy would be patterned after the army's West Point and the navy's Annapolis. Congress has yet to authorize it.

The site selection board, headed by General Carl Spaatz, will start its inspection tour Nov. 20. It plans to narrow the field to three or four sites by the end of the year.

Visit Here Nov. 21

The dates of the board's visits to the areas include: St. Louis area, Nov. 21; Sedalia, Nov. 22.

An air force spokesman said congressional hearings on whether the academy is to be established probably will be held early in the session opening Jan. 3.

Members of the site selection board in addition to General Spaatz are:

Lt. Gen. H. R. Harmon, Brig. Gen. Harold L. Clark, Dr. Bruce Hopper, consultant, and Lt. Col. Arthur E. Boudreau, secretary.

The air force itself made public the details previously given out by Senator Johnson's office. The official announcement added that a Chicago architectural firm, Root and Birge, will begin around the first of the year a detailed survey of the to six sites that will be chosen by that time for further study.

The air force said the site board already has a great deal of information concerning the 29 sites. This includes not only information furnished by the sponsoring agencies but reports prepared by army engineers. The air force statement said the site board already has a great deal of information concerning the 29 sites. This includes not only information furnished by the sponsoring agencies but reports prepared by army engineers. The air force added:

"The board will consider this data along with the report of Holabird and Root and Birge in making its final selection for recommendation to the secretary of the air force. Final authorization to establish such an academy must be obtained from Congress."

Cals From Congressmen

The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, this morning, received calls from the offices of both United States Senator James P. Kem, and Congressman George H. Christopher regarding an inspection tour of the Air Academy Sites board.

The Chamber of Commerce is making available all data compiled through its organization on the proposed Sedalia site which is the Sedalia Air Force base and several hundreds of acres which surround the site.

He and Mrs. Truman attended the Boston symphony's concert in heavily-guarded Constitution hall.

Local Phone Service as Usual Today

Picketing at the Bell Exchange Early Part of Night

The "strangers" from St. Louis, pickets representing the striking Communication Workers, CWA-CIO of the Western Electric Co. made another "hit-and-run" picketing of the local exchange of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Thursday afternoon. Their picket line was put into operation at 3:27 o'clock and "pulled" about 11:00 o'clock that night.

Local exchange operations were normal for the first part of the day, at least until when, and if, the pickets come back. The operations run from normal to emergency, the latter existing when the pickets arrive on the scene and operators and other workers refuse to cross the picket line.

The pickets who walked in Sedalia Wednesday and Thursday evening were said to have been on duty at the Fulton exchange of the telephone company today.

Uphold Right to Picket

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 17—(AP)—An Arkansas Supreme Court justice today upheld the right of striking Western Electric employees to picket a Southwestern Bell Telephone company exchange.

Associate Justice Edwin Duna-probation which dissolves an in-way issued a temporary writ of junction of the Pulaski County Chancery court prohibiting picketing in Little Rock.

The temporary writ will be in effect only until the next regular session of the Supreme Court Monday.

Meanwhile, the 24 Arkansas Western Electric employees, members of the CIO Communications Workers of America, extended their hit and run picketing to Southwestern Bell exchanges in Malvern and Benton today.

Most Communists

Most of the first licensees were Communists, however. As relations with Russia deteriorated they were ousted by the occupation authorities and new publishers were licensed to publish independent papers.

"Now in Western Germany, I think I can say we have a rather free press," Trabert said.

He said there is a regulation that occupation measures must not be criticized, but for the last two years it has not been rigidly enforced. In practice, German papers can and do criticize the occupation authorities, Trabert said.

Reporting on a successful year for the association, Manager John A. Hogg of Columbia told about a new project to be started soon. It is a continuing study of reader interest in two weekly papers in cooperation with the school of journalism.

Later, he said, a similar study of dailies will be made.

Wilbur "Sparky" Stalcup, University of Missouri basketball coach, was the scheduled luncheon speaker. Panel discussions on newspaper topics were on the program this afternoon. Tonight the delegates go to the state's model prison farm west of Jefferson City for dinner.

Dinner Meet By Opti-Mrs. Club

The Sedalia Opti-Mrs. Club held a dinner meeting in the Palm room of the Bothwell hotel Thursday evening with a large number of members present.

The president of the club, Mrs. G. Patrick Darnell, presided over the session. Mrs. R. R. Highleyman, charter member of the Sedalia Opti-Mrs. club was a special guest. She has recently returned from an extended visit with her daughter in Orlando, Florida.

The program was devoted to National Optimist week which is now underway.

Jim Reed, jeweler member of Sedalia Optimists, was the guest speaker. Reed explained the work of the Optimist and Opti Mrs. clubs are doing for boys and girls in the Sedalia area.

The club voted to enter a float in the Christmas parade.

Calls For Two For Induction

The Pettis county Selective Service board has received a call for two men to leave for Kansas City for induction into service on December 4, according to Mrs. Verna E. Williams, clerk of the board. They are Walter Leroy Dirck, 314 East Saline street and Henry Jackson, 112 East Morgan street.

Two calls have also been received by the Selective Service board for physical examinations. The first call is for 20 men on November 20, to report to Kansas City. The second call is for 18 men to report to Kansas City on December 14. They will start with the December 14 group calling young men 20 years old.

Control Over Russian Press

German Declares It is Like That Under Hitler

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 17—(AP)—A visiting German newspaperman said today the Russian zone of Germany has the same kind of controlled press the whole nation had under Hitler.

He was Alfons Trabert, 28, of the Frankfurt Neue Presse. He is one of ten German journalists studying at the University of Missouri school of journalism as guests of the State Department.

Under Hitler in Germany, Trabert said, there was virtually one newspaper for the entire country—"you could read and hear only his master's voice."

The same situation exists today in the Russian zone, he said.

Trabert spoke at the opening session of the Missouri Press Association.

He said the visiting Germans were "very astonished at the high standard of advertising in American papers." German newspapers can learn a lot from American advertising practices, he said.

He thought German businessmen "are not educated to the value of advertising" as well as American businessmen are.

Trabert told how the German press had to start from scratch after World War II ended. Then occupation forces licensed Germans to publish newspapers with equipment formerly used by the Nazis.

Set Stronghold Afire

War planes, striking out in front of the spearheading advance of the 17th Infantry Regiment's tank column in the northeast, set ablaze the Red stronghold of Kapsan, the Tenth Corps announced. Kapsan is the U.S. Seventh Division's immediate objective.

Over 500 By-passed Communists Are Killed by 25th Division in Battle

SEOUL, Nov. 17—(AP)—An American tank column blasted its way through a Red trap in a far north Korean mountain ravine today. Then it rolled northward in a blazing bid to reach the Manchurian border in four days.

Communists opened up on the 17th Infantry Regiment from the hillsides as the tanks rumbled along a narrow road in northeast Korea. A three-hour battle ended with 125 Communists dead on the hills and Marine Corsairs rocketing the fleeing remnants.

This was about 23 miles south of the Manchurian frontier.

The commander of the column said his force would reach the border early next week and it fired on from Manchuria—"We will shoot hell out of them."

Elsewhere on the front:

The South Korean Capital Division clawed 3,000 to 4,000 yards forward on the extreme northeast sector.

U.S. Marines probed mountains around Changjin reservoir in the center of the peninsula.

Patrols of the U.S. 24th Division roamed unopposed more than six miles north of Pakchon in the northwest.

American troops hunting down guerrillas far behind the lines reported inflicting the biggest death toll of any battle action this week. More than 500 Reds were killed. Red raiders retaliated by setting an entire town, Kapyong, ablaze. More than 8,000 villagers fled.

Along most of the front Communists avoided any major engagement. But they were building up forces in the mountains. A spokesman estimated 100,000 Reds are available in the northwest—armies equipped with American artillery captured by Chinese Communists from Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists and now supplied by American-type shells manufactured in Red Manchuria.

Missouri Needs More Teachers

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 17—(AP)—Missouri will need an additional 5,000 teachers and additional buildings costing $80,000,000 to handle the increased school enrollment expected by 1956.

That prediction was made at the convention of the Missouri State Teachers Association here yesterday by Hubert Wheeler, state commissioner of education.

Wheeler said there would be 150,000 more pupils by 1956 than there were in 1948.

(For Hal Boyle)

NORTHEAST KOREA —(P)—Life being what it is in these parts—a grim mixture of cold and filth and frontier conditions—I think when my travel orders come I'll settle for any old mode of transportation.

I don't insist on a first class stateroom in a luxury liner.

I have my eye on a ragtag, bobtailed fleet, put together with odds and ends of coastal craft, that is performing an heroic chore in supplying Allied troops.

It is the only fleet commanded by an Army captain.

That doesn't stop me. As a World War II Marine, I'm used to hardships.

The captain, Borden T. Wright, Oakland, Calif., has promised me a berth on his good ship "Flying Cloud."

It is not exactly the most luxurious vessel in the captain's 31-ship fleet, but its wooden hull is believed to be reasonably seaworthy.

Besides, it has a capacity of at least six tons—not to mention a galley perfectly adequate for preparing "C" rations.

Vessels of Wright's fleet range from two to 40 tons. They are powered by gasoline or Diesel engines, except for one driven by charcoal.

"In convoy," Wright said proudly, "we expect they will make five knots, and, you know, they've never been bothered by submarines or airplanes."

The ship I like is a honey about 38 feet long and maybe 14 in beam, and has one anchor.

Some of this wooden fleet manned by iron men is armed with 37-mm. anti-tank guns and assorted machineguns. What will happen if the guns ever are fired is problematical. But then, I can swim.

Wright, a Korean Military Advisory Group (KMAAG) supply officer, began liberating his fleet and manning it with volunteers way back in mid-September, at Pohang on Korea's southeast coast.

Ships of this independent fleet draw from two to six feet, fully loaded, and so far mines have been no problem.

"Everybody makes fun of my fleet," said Wright, "but I can stand for it. The breakthrough up the east coast wouldn't have moved as fast as it did without my fleet. We use it to shuttle emergency supplies up and down the coast."

So far none of the ships has been lost to anything except lack of repairs.

Incidentally, my stateroom when that dream trip comes up will be just aft of the bridge, where I won't get wet from spray breaking over the bow.

Quilting at Club Meeting

The Prairie Hill Helping Hand club met at the home of Mrs. Duward Edwards, November 8. A contributive dinner was served to members and two visitors, Mrs. Junior Ferguson and son.

The members completed two quilt tops. One was a friendship pattern and one was the brick pattern.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Chris Lemler in Dresden. An election of officers will be held at that time.

No Charge in Double Killing

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 17.—(P)—J. P. McRae, who shot to death his wife and her lover in a secluded summer cottage, was free last night of any charge.

Coroner C. S. Green released the 34-year old trucking firm head after his jury heard a brother—A. G. McRae—and two other witnesses tell of the shotgun slaying yesterday of City Safety Commissioner Richard D. Sutton, 39, and Mrs. McRae, 33, and socially prominent.

Judge Green said his jury would study the evidence and return a verdict in a week or 10 days.

The witnesses testified that McRae, aware of secret meetings of his wife with the city commissioner, entered the latter's lakeside cottage and caught them in bed together.

He had taken along an automatic shotgun. With it he blasted his wife's head from her shoulders and nearly severed Sutton's.

Almost immediately he suffered a heart attack. He was taken to jail, then to a hospital under guard. Later the guard was removed.

Those who took part in the program were: Dickie Shoemaker, Patti Moore, Bonnie Lazenby, Rosalie Moore, Ann Harding, Bonnie Gorrell, Bobby Rialti, Nancy Oswald and Firman Boul.

A farewell supper was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rothenberger, of near Spring Fork, October 26 in honor of their son, Dale, who left for the Navy, Friday, October 27.

Those present were: his sisters, Hazel and Wanda of the home, Marvin of Warrensburg; Mrs. Rellis Wilson and sons, David and Eric; Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Miller and daughters, Bonnie and Carolyn, of Windsor; Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Young and sons, Steve and Jimmie, of Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rothenberger, Skipper, Micky and Vicki; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Case and daughters, Anna Catherine, Janet and Myrna Lou, Gene Bills, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Carroll and daughter, Patsy, of Green Ridge; Mr. Leonard Logan and son, Ryland.

Church News

The Woman's Missionary Union of the First Baptist church presented its regular monthly program at the church Thursday afternoon.

The theme of the program was "Medical Missions in Foreign Lands."

The program opened with the hymn, "Jesus Shall Reign."

Devotional was by Mrs. Wray Berch.

Special music, a solo, "The God of Grace," by Mrs. B. B. Bess.

Mrs. L. C. Tidwell gave a talk on "Medical Missions in Africa," Mrs. Russell Conn, Jr., read letters, "A GI Discovers Missions," and "Medical Missions in China and Latin America," was given by Mrs. George Arquitt.

The Fidelis Sunday school class met Wednesday night with Anna Mae Ratcliff with Mrs. W. F. Ratcliff as co-hostess. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Ed Finley, president; Mrs. Mary Helms, vice president; Mrs. Ethel Milburn, secretary and treasurer.

Miss Anna Ratcliff had charge of the devotional. The date for the Christmas bazaar was set for December 1.

Refreshments and decorations were in keeping with the Thanksgiving season. The January meeting will be with Mrs. Lucy Bond. Mrs. Broox Dunstan will be the assisting hostess.

Senators Inspect New Highway

PANAMA, Nov. 17—(AP)—Three U. S. Senators have begun inspection of the Inter-American highway in Central America.

The group, consisting of Senators Chavez (L-NM), Malone (R-Nev.) and Kem (R-Mo.), drove yesterday over a section of the road which will extend to the Costa Rican border when it is completed. They plan to inspect other sections of the highway by plane, then return to Washington Sunday.

The party is making a check of the defense and economic aspects of the big highway project, intended to link North and South America for road transportation.

Rep. Cannon to Send Choice Ham

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—(AP)—Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.) and four other Missourians say they will have entries in the Missouri ham-sampling contest at a breakfast-luncheon of the University of the Missouri alumni in Washington Sunday.

Herschel Schooley, president of the Washington chapter, said Cannon wrote him he could not attend the meeting but was sending a ham from his farm near Elsberry, Mo.

"He was confident it would be the best," Schooley said.

But Schooley, who said four other hams from as many counties in the state have been promised for the event, was in a quandary.

"Details of how to conduct the contest remained to be worked out," he told a reporter.

"We don't know whether to use a secret ballot, an applause meter or declare all of the Missouri hams all good and take Missouri against the world."

He said he received a telegram from Bob Hill, saying he was shipping a ham from his home county of Boone. He added that a letter from Mitchell White, Mexico, Mo., newspaper publisher, stated that a ham had been skillfully cooked in Mexico for the occasion.

Other hams, he added, are expected from Jack Blanton, Paris, Mo., publisher of the Monroe County Appeal, and from Brent Williams, former St. Louis newspaper man in Calloway county.

Four barrels of apples have arrived here from a Missouri apple grower, Schooley said, and many of them will be baked for the brunch.

Find Body of Mrs. F. H. Ecker

CHARLES, S.C., Nov. 17—(AP)—The Civil Air Patrol said today one of its pilots had found the body of Mrs. Frederick H. Ecker, who drowned Wednesday off Seabrook beach. The body was found near the south end of Edisto beach.

The body, discovered by pilot Jack Southworth, was about 15 miles south of the area where the 48-year-old wife of the Metropolitan life insurance executive company's board chairman fell into the water. She and three friends were fishing from a small boat when it capsized.

The CAP said a search would continue for the body of James Merrill Herd, Jr., 39-year-old New York theatrical producer.

peace, the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff called for:

1. Building "a strong and wholesome nation, to act as a pivotal center for freedom."

2. Maintaining and enlarging industry and productivity, and, "wherever it serves freedom's interest," sharing the resulting benefits.

3. Exercising "all the means of diplomacy, all the skills of negotiation, to enlarge the opportunities for freedom throughout the world."

"In short," Bradley said, "we can and must win the cold wars, as well as the hot ones. So long as we can create the political, economic, religious and moral strength with which to face the threats of international communism, we are on the road to success."

"At the same time," he added, "we must build the enduring military strength which can preserve and protect the United States, and freedom, so that we can insure the security of this pivotal nation."

This, he said, calls for a rapid build-up of the fighting forces of the U. S. and friendly nations.

Hormonized Chickens Can Produce Sterile Humans

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON.—When you eat a chicken neck from a capon which has been fed on a certain kind of fattening hormone, you run the risk of becoming sterile. This is one of the findings of the House committee to investigate the use of chemicals in food products, which has been quietly probing the effect of all sorts of chemicals now artificially injected into our food.

In the case of chicken necks, it was revealed that some poultry farmers use a hormone called stilbesterol to fatten chickens in a hurry. When injected in the neck, this hormone makes an old rooster not only fat but tender.

The effect on the human being, if he eats the neck, however, can induce sterility. Congressman Arthur Miller of Nebraska, himself a doctor, told the committee that the mink growers of Illinois had fed chicken and turkey heads from poultry so treated to their mink, only to have them become sterile.

As a result, Canada prohibits the use of stilbesterol pellets in feeding poultry. Dr. Franklin Church Bing, chairman of the chemical committee of the American Public Health Association told the Congressmen.

Gives Dogs Fits

The committee, headed by able James J. Delaney, New York Democrat, has heard testimony from some of the nation's top chemists, all of whom urge the plugging of present loopholes in the pure food and drug act to prevent the use of harmful chemicals.

Their testimony revealed that while some chemicals are harmless, others are so poisonous that they produce ulcers, and even disintegrate the human teeth.

One example of a dangerous food ingredient is agene, or nitrogen trichloride, a chemical used to age flour. Although used for more than 30 years, it was not until 3 years ago that an English scientist proved that agene-treated bread produced epileptic fits in dogs. In recent months, the use of this chemical has been discontinued but not until after millions of people had eaten it.

The committee has developed a long list of dangerous chemicals—many of them consumed daily. The list includes:

1. MINERAL OIL—Used in salad dressings and on popcorn as a substitute for nutritious fats was found to interfere with the absorption of oil-soluble vitamins and generally upset the human digestive system.
2. MONOCHLORACETIC ACID—Used as a preservative for wines and a number of food products. Its use in an orange soft drink recently caused numerous illnesses.
3. DULCIN—An artificial sweetener, used as a sugar substitute by diabetics and recently discovered to be toxic.

Under our present purefood and drug laws, the government is not permitted to take action against the use of chemicals until after the food has been on the market; then only after protracted investigation and hearings. As a result, according to the scientists testifying before Congress, the American public has become a nation of experimental guinea pigs.

Congressman Delaney now proposes to have these chemicals tested before their use, not afterward.

INDUSTRY REQUESTS CONTROLS—Charles Wilson of General Electric and Henry Ford II read the riot act to Secretary of Commerce Sawyer and Stuart Symington on high prices of raw materials at the recent mobilization meeting at Sea Island, Ga. They wanted to know when the government was going to do something about high prices. It was shortly after this that Secretary Sawyer came out emphatically against voluntary controls.

HIS SON TORTURED—U.S. Ambassador David Bruce in Paris has complained vigorously to the French government about French Defense Minister Jules Moch. Bruce told French Premier Rene Pleven at a secret conference that the U.S.A. believes Moch's anti-German attitude is threatening to wreck all plans for defending Europe against communism; that Moch is being unnecessarily tough about Germany because his son was tortured to death by the Nazi Gestapo during the war. Premier Pleven promised to get Moch to soften his opposition. (Many Americans think Moch is right.)

Taft's Easy Victory Smashes Labor's Political Ambitions

By Bruce Blossat

Senator Taft's victory will be the topic of more election postmortems than any in the United States, and rightly so. It was almost a perfect laboratory test of labor's power at the polls.

Organized labor made the greatest effort in its political history to dislodge an incumbent lawmaker. As never elsewhere, it presented a united front. It spent sizable sums, ground out millions of pieces of literature, recruited large numbers from its own ranks first to help register the labor vote and then to get it to the polls, and brought top national labor men into Ohio to press the cause against Taft.

Never before was a man's record in Congress combed so exhaustively for ammunition that could be used against him. By his votes over a 12-year span, Taft was portrayed as an enemy of the worker, the farmer, the veteran and the housewife. He was called a hateful man with a heart of iron, who had no right to ask people to call him "Bob."

What happened as result of this terrific outpouring of energy.

Taft won re-election by 430,000 votes, the third highest plurality ever gained by a Senate candidate in Ohio history. His total vote was a record for a Senate nominee. He swept 84 of Ohio's 88 counties, and even carried such key labor strongholds as Cleveland, Youngstown, Akron and Dayton.

So labor failed utterly in its biggest test. But why?

In simplest terms, it failed because it didn't deliver the labor vote as it wished. Jack Kroll, director of the CIO's Political Action Committee and himself an Ohioan, conceded this when he said—"they (the workers) just don't seem to have voted the way we wanted them to."

The labor managers of the anti-Taft fight overlooked many things, but none more important than the evident fact that a worker, like any other American, considers himself a free individual capable of deciding on his own how to vote. You can carry him to the polls, but you can't tell him what to do. He resents dictation, especially from people outside his own state and city.

Taft must have polled from a third to a half of labor's vote, while union men before the election were granting him only a fifth.

Furthermore, labor did not measure accurately the reaction its extreme campaign efforts would stir. Create a big fuss and you most often arouse one in the opposite camp. Just that happened—Taft's campaign was the best organized of his career. He got more money and more help, volunteer and otherwise, than ever before. It was probably the biggest Republican effort at all levels since Wendell Willkie's days.

Labor realized to some degree that this was occurring, but felt its delivery of the labor vote would offset. It perhaps understands now that whipping up a tremendous ballyhoo against a candidate isn't necessarily the way to beat him.

The nation over, this was a campaign marred by distortion and untruth. But nowhere was this more true than in Ohio—except possibly New York—and labor was the quietest. It twisted and warped Taft's votes out of all relation to their true meaning. It indulged in outright falsehood. It even took a quote from his father, William Howard Taft, altered it vitally, and stuck it in Taft's mouth.

Though Taft's own campaign certainly was not free of exaggeration and inaccuracy, it was by contrast direct, forthright, pointed straight at the basic issues.

Maybe labor will learn from this painful lesson, as we hope all politicians will in many quarters of the nation, that lies and misrepresentations are not ingredients for success at the polls.

Many will say labor lost largely because it backed a weak candidate, Democrat Joseph T. Ferguson. But weaker men than Joe have been elected and are now serving in the Senate, and they beat good men to get there.

You can't blame it all on Joe. The fact is he might have done better without such vociferous assistance. Strictly, this was labor's show. It would have taken credit for the victory. It certainly can't escape responsibility for defeat.

Matt. 16:24—26; Luke 14:25—35; Gal. 2:20; Phil. 1:20—21

WE BEGIN A STUDY OF THE BEATITUDES

We concluded our outlines for the study of the Word. If "the proper study of mankind is man," then the proper study of the Word is the Word. We shall pause for a moment at the opening sentences of the Sermon on the Mount, the Beatitudes. If "the Bible is distilled essence of great souls," then this Sermon is the distilled essence of the Soul of Christ. He is limning His own spirit on the canvas of these words.

The Beatitudes begin and end where Jesus began and ended in His ministry as a whole. They begin with the Kingdom (Matthew 5:3), and end with the Kingdom (vs. 9). As the Kingdom was the framework in which all His teaching was set, the Master-light in which everything was seen, so the Kingdom is supreme here. The Sermon is turning out to be, not idealism, but what we have always been convinced it was—stark realism. The Kingdom is Reality—the only Reality.

Jesus is saying here what He always insisted upon: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, . . . and all these things shall be added unto you"—get this straight, and everything else will come out straight. But how do you get this supreme Value straight—by holding it as a supreme Idea? No; but by submitting to it as a supreme Loyalty. "Blessed are the renounced in spirit (lit.); for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." The Kingdom is imperious, demanding on the very threshold of renunciation, and a renunciation at the deepest depths—in spirit.

On the very threshold of the Kingdom we meet a demand: Be renounced in spirit. If not, nothing else follows; if so, then everything follows.

O God, I know whose bonds are upon my heart. I know what I must do: I must renounce at the center—in my very spirit. With the center Thine, then all the circumference follows. Help me to let the Kingdom operate from the center of my being to the circumference of my relationships. Then I shall be a Kingdom-controlled man. In Jesus' name. Amen.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

Q. A man of 19 is a sophomore in engineering school, majoring in chemistry and an "A" student. Does he have a chance of finishing school before being drafted?

A. A good chance. They're letting outstanding students, especially in the sciences, finish college. However, final decision is up to local draft boards.

Q. Under Gen. Marshall's new plan on the call of reservists will I be able to resign from the reserves after I am married next week?

A. No. You'll just have to wait for a call to active duty and state why you think you shouldn't be taken—if you don't want to go—at that time.

Q. My husband is in the naval inactive reserve and taking training for a state police job. Will his work keep him from a call to active duty?

A. It could if the head of the state police will ask for his deferment on grounds that he is an essential man in a vital work.

Q. My brother recently joined the Army. He is a sole survivor as far as my brother and I are concerned. Another brother was killed in World War II. Our parents are dead. Will he be kept out of combat?

A. Only sole surviving sons are being kept out of combat. No matter how you look at it your brother in the service is not a sole surviving son and therefore the rule does not apply to him.

Q. I used to get an allotment check from my son in service. Then it was stopped. Now, I hear, they are started again. Will mine be sent to me again automatically?

A. No. Your son has to make a new application for it under the new law.

Q. Can you give me any information on how they might change the draft law when Congress reconvenes? Will they take Married men?

A. Theoretically this space is devoted to answering questions of fact, not speculation on what is going on in the minds of congressmen.

SHERIFF CLEM PURDY
watched her with eyes that were weary and unbelieving even as he admitted her theory had possibilities.

"But," the sheriff asked, "where's Peter's body?"
Mart shrugged. Leeana felt he was laughing at her.

"But look, honey," Mart pointed out, "don't let personalities turn your head. Just because you don't like the gal doesn't mean she's a killer. After all, Sondra didn't run away after Peter."

"And she did ask to be found," Leeana said, her voice sharp with anger. "Smoke coming from the chimney of a house looked up tight. She knew someone would notice it. You said yourself, Sheriff, 'everybody knows Lick Williams goes to Miami for the winter. She wanted to be found.'"
"All right, all right," Purdy said petulantly. "Why?"
"So she could come back here to—"

"To what?" demanded the sheriff.
Leeana ran her tongue around hot dry lips. "Peter," she said, "must be here—somewhere."

"Oh, indeed? Where?"
If only she could convince them—
"How long does it take to go to town? By car?"
"About five minutes," Purdy said. "Why?"

"Because," Leeana said slowly, "when I regained consciousness that night Miss Maggie was murdered Peter and Sondra told me that they had found me, and Miss Maggie half an hour before."
"Well?" The sheriff waited.

"It was another five minutes or so before Jasper came with you and Mart. How long did it take you to get here after Jasper found you?"

"Six-seven minutes," Purdy snapped. "I had to pick up Mart, but—"

Understanding dawned brightly in his tired face. He leaped up, made for the door.

"Send Jasper Thorne down here!" he bawled at his man upstairs.

THEY waited in silence for Jasper, whose appearance seemed to take hours even though he came at once. Purdy motioned toward the chair he had abandoned and Jasper sat in it, gingerly.

"How long was it between the time Miss Maggie's body was found, Jasper, and the time you started for town?"

Jasper looked up, startled. "Why—ah—right away. I mean, only a few seconds."
"How long did it take you to reach Thorne City? To find me?"
"Oh, five minutes. Maybe less; I drove fast. Now will you tell me what this is about?"

Purdy looked at Leeana. She said, "Where was I when you left, Jasper?"
"On the couch in the hall. They said you'd killed Aunt Maggie and then fainted."
"How long did it take you to speak, asked plaintively: 'You do know—now, don't you?'"

"I think so, Jasper," Leeana felt uneasy as the man's brown-marble eyes bored into hers. "Were you actually in your room?"
He shook his head, ever so faintly. "Only part of the time," he admitted. "But I wasn't upstairs." He was talking to Sheriff Purdy now, whitening the lie he had told regarding his whereabouts. "I had been with Sondra. In the living room. We fought and she flounced off upstairs. I sat there awhile, brooding, I guess, and then went outside. After awhile I went to my room. I was—"

he fumbled about for a word—"on edge. Afraid Sondra would leave Thorne Hill when Peter did." His smile was feeble, pitiful. "As she did, only Peter seems to have had other ideas."

Leeana winced. Old Jasper actually believe Peter was the guilty one?

"Leeana doesn't think Peter is having any more ideas, Jasper," Mart Preston told him bluntly. "That leaves you, Jasper, and Sondra."

There was no change in Jasper Thorne's sallow, pinched face. He just sat there, arms folded on the table in front of him.

At a nod from the sheriff Leeana began talking slowly, repeating for Jasper's benefit the things she already had told Purdy and Mart. "There was too much time," she said then, "Peter and Sondra used that time to perfect their story, to pack my bag and put it in your car, to cut the telephone wires, to call you. Can't you see how it was, Jasper?"

He just sat there, head down, eyes half closed, face impassive.

"Peter told me Miss Maggie was dead when he went to kill her," Leeana went on. "What he didn't say was that he half-choked me, so I wouldn't know he had gone upstairs—or that he found Sondra in his aunt's room and they saw a chance of getting away with it. Their story was good. Each protected the other—because they had to. Neither could involve the other without involving himself. But Peter knew Sondra would kill again, so he gave me the lavalier, hinting at the same time that he knew who the killer was. I think he'd have told me if I hadn't heard Sondra at the door. He ran away. I went to my room, where Sondra pretended to wake up. She asked me if I'd seen Peter. I told her no—but she found him, and killed him. The note on my bed—" she looked at Mart—"was by Sondra, to throw us off the track. Just as she told Jasper I had the lavalier. Didn't she, Jap?"

Jasper nodded and for the first time Leeana saw in him resemblance to his brother. Knowledge spread with deadly intent across his face.

"The car," he said hoarsely. "She wanted to get it away from here. She even told me to take it and—"

and get away while I could."

The Doctor Says—

Treatment for Cystitis Should Begin as Early as Possible

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

The most common symptoms of inflammation of the urinary bladder, which is known medically as cystitis, are pain, the presence of pus in the urine, and frequent urination.

Patients afflicted with this condition often have chills and fever. They may lose weight and suffer from sleeplessness. Examination of the urine will often show blood in addition to the pus.

Acute cystitis is the kind which begins suddenly. It usually starts near the base of the bladder but is likely to spread to the other parts two baths, plus about thirty rooms of various kinds in the two basements; the old White House had fifty-eight rooms.

Q—What is the oldest school of science in America?

A—Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, New York, founded in 1824.

Q—How nearly has Japanese tea production returned to prewar level?

A—It is now about 60 per cent of its prewar amount.

Q—What is the measure of an inch originally determined?

A—The inch originated as the thickness of a man's thumb.

Q—How were Shakespeare's plays originally published?

A—His plays were published separately during his lifetime in what are known as the Quartos.

of the lining membrane. The wall of the bladder becomes inflamed and is swollen and bright red in color.

Regardless of whether it is caused by germs or by chemicals, the best treatment for acute cystitis is to try to find the cause and treat or remove it.

Chronic cystitis, a condition in which there is long-lasting inflammation of the wall of the bladder with perhaps pain at intervals and pus either constantly or off and on, is another frequent problem. Of course, this condition can result from acute cystitis also.

In such cases expert study not only of the bladder itself, but of the surrounding tissues, including the kidney, must be carried out. One important study can be made by using an instrument with lights and mirrors called a cystoscope. This can be passed directly into the bladder so that the physician can look at the bladder wall.

Should Not Be Neglected

By one means or another it is usually possible to identify the cause and in many cases to remove it. As a rule cystitis or inflammation of the bladder must be looked upon as a symptom of something wrong elsewhere rather than as a disease in itself.

When such symptoms as those mentioned appear they should not be neglected, since they frequently mean that some serious condition is present which should be promptly diagnosed and treated. With modern methods and never treatment, the majority can be brought swiftly under control.

Jaycees Have Bosses Night At Dinner

Art Hassenflu, National Director, Is The Speaker

Over a hundred men attended the Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting, Thursday evening, held in the Pioneer Room over Dan's Restaurant. This was the largest attendance the Jaycees have had at any dinner meeting. This was attributed to Bosses Night. The Jaycees invited their employers as guests.

The meeting was opened with all singing "America." The invocation was given by Mayor Herb Studer. Bert Hathaway, acted as toastmaster.

A brief business session was presided over by President Bob Wall. Committee chairmen made announcements pertaining to various projects.

Roll call was answered by the members, who in turn introduced their guests. Many guests, or employers of Jaycees were from out of town.

Jaycee member, Chris Rau, who will be leaving for the armed services soon, was presented with a gift, as a token of appreciation for the services he has rendered in the Jaycee organization.

National Director Speaks
The principal speaker for the evening, Art Hassenflu, national director for Missouri of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, was introduced by Bert Hathaway.

The speaker spoke on the importance of the Jaycee organization to the bosses, and related the many benefits to the members, derived from the organization.

He said that the JCC trains its members for business advancement and civic leadership and defined the organization as: "A supplementary educational organization wherein the young men of a community may join together in a friendly spirit to inculcate civic consciousness in its membership by means of active participation in constructive projects which will improve community, state and nation."

Among the benefits to Jaycee members, and indirectly and directly to bosses were: friendship, widespread acquaintanceship, social events, responsibility (increases powers of initiative, originality and ingenuity) speaking ability practiced and improved, recognition by press and community as a whole, and through the meeting of outstanding men at state and national meetings.

The speaker, who has been a member of the Jaycees for several years in Kansas City, paid tribute to the Sedalia JCC for its rapid growth of over 100 members in the short time since it was chartered.

In conclusion, Mr. Hassenflu said, "This Junior Chamber of Commerce is an organization of young men learning civic consciousness through constructive action and this banquet affords these young men present here tonight the opportunity to extend to you an invitation to join them in building your city's future."

The meeting was adjourned, following a movie on the growth of Kansas City.

Still Favor a Medics School

Location Seems to Be Desired on Campus at M. U.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 17.—(P)—The board of curators of the University of Missouri formally went on record again today as favoring re-establishment of a four-year medical school on the university campus at Columbia.

They will seek $12,000,000 for this purpose from the next legislature.

The action came at a regularly-scheduled meeting here. The vote on establishment of the medical school at Columbia was 6 to 2. Dissenting were Stratton Chafel of Kansas City and Dr. Glenn W. Hendren of Liberty.

The ninth curator, Dr. Frank C. Mann of Springfield, was not present.

Dr. Hendren agreed that the four-year medical school should be established but he disagreed on Columbia as the location for the school. Kansas City long has been mentioned as a possible site.

Hendren urged that the school be situated in a metropolitan area and asked the curators to defer action on the issue until a special committee on the board could make "a thorough investigation."

He asked that the committee look into "the proposals we have received from Kansas City" and to investigate "the possibility of locating the school in St. Louis, which is, theoretically, a most important potential site."

By its vote, the board turned down Hendren's suggestion.

The vote reaffirmed the board's action of 1945. Again, now, it's up to the legislature.

The university's medical curriculum was cut from four to two years in 1909. There has been an almost constant fight since that time to restore the full program.

Selection of a site for the school has proved the major stumbling block.

Roscoe Anderson of Webster Groves, president of the board of curators, said after today's meeting:

"We hope this controversy is over. As far as this board is concerned, it is ended. We hope it won't be revived."

Today's action was recommended by a special board committee, assisted in its study by Dr. Harold S. Diehl, dean of the Medical Sciences of the University of Minnesota.

The committee was appointed in May, 1949, to study a report by the Missouri Medical Association, advocating establishment of the medical school in Kansas City.

Dr. Diehl estimated it would take an initial construction outlay of $10,500,000 to build the medical center in Kansas City.

His report showed the same program would cost $24,500,000 at Columbia.

But his estimates were based on a much bigger teaching hospital than is anticipated by the University of Missouri.

U. S. Tank Column is Rolling Ahead For the Manchurian Border escaped death. Later he said his men would reach the Manchurian border "within three or four days."

A Tenth Corps spokesman said they were 20 miles from the border, but Associated Press correspondent Tom Stone, with the regiment, reported they were 23 miles away.

"We plan to go to the Yalu then pull back and entrench," Powell told Stone. "My orders are indefinite."

"But if they fire across the river at us, we will shoot hell out of them."

Avoid Manchurian Side

The statement contrasted with standing orders to U.N. airmen to scrupulously avoid crossing to the Manchurian side of the Yalu river in their bomb raids to block out Chinese Communist reinforcements, or in chasing Red jet planes.

The 17th's two-day toll of 370 Reds was topped by anti-guerrilla actions in the rear.

The U.S. 25th Division reported it killed 537 bypassed Communists Thursday in battles 50 miles south of the northwestern front.

A Red guerrilla command post was blown up by artillery and an ammunition depot in a cave was captured. Three hundred thousand rounds of mortar and artillery shells were in the cave, 20 miles east of Pyongyang, former Red capital.

These actions were in the Pyongyang-Chorwon-Ichon triangle where guerrillas have opened a "second front" patterned on tactics perfected by Chinese and Russian Communists.

Civilians Routed

Just outside this triangle, a small band of torch-bearing guerrillas set fire to the town of Kap-yong, 32 miles northeast of Seoul, early Friday. Sweeping flames routed 8,000 civilians.

General MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo said North Korean Reds, bypassed in the U.N. sweep northward, have been reorganized under a central command. They are carrying on coordinated guerrilla raids to disrupt U.N. supply lines and keep themselves equipped.

Headquarters added there are 10,000 bypassed Communists in the triangle.

Intelligence officers were not so sure about the significance of Communist strategy on established battle fronts.

Reds fought, fiercely around Tokchon, center of a road network on the right flank of the western front, and on the northeast coast 90 miles south of the Soviet border. They staged new attacks in both areas.

Elsewhere they pulled back. But Red build-ups in the north central mountains posed constant threats.

Korean Reds abandoned good positions and pulled back from the advancing U.S. 7th Division tank column to well prepared positions at Kapsan. Tanks were five miles from this mountain crossroads city, which is 15 miles south of the Manchurian frontier.

The tank column was slowed by harrying Red attacks, by mines which plimped the road, and by blown bridges. The 17th Regiment of the 7th Division reported counting 262 enemy dead after beating back Red attacks.

Four Years Term Given Gambler

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 17.—(P)—John Mangiaracina, Kansas City gambler known as Johnny Mag, today was sentenced to serve four years for income tax evasion.

Mangiaracina, pleaded guilty Nov. 8 to a charge of evading $2,045 in income taxes for 1947 and to another charging evasion of $2,094 in taxes in 1947. A third count was dismissed.

Judge Albert L. Reeves sentenced him to four years on each of the two counts, the terms to run concurrently.

It was the heaviest sentence given any of the defendants indicted by a federal grand jury for evasion of income taxes. Shortly after disposing of the case, Judge Reeves sentenced another gambler, Walter Rainey, to two years for evading income taxes for 1948. Rainey was convicted Nov. 3. He was found innocent on two counts, those charging him with income tax evasion in 1946 and 1947. Rainey was accused of evading $3,507.97 in taxes over the three year period.

Some of Cold Moves to East

By the Associated Press

Some of the cold and wet weather from the midwest moved into the eastern states today. No severe cold was in prospect for the area, but it marked the end of a mild spell.

The cooler air was expected to extend south into the Carolinas with showers over many parts of the Atlantic coast.

The weather was fair in the central states. Skies were cloudy, with mild temperatures, in the Rockies and westward to the Pacific coast. There were a few snow flurries in the Central Rockies and some rain along the Northwest Pacific coast.

Some cold air massed in Canada may move into Montana and the Dakotas tonight, federal forecasters said. There is a big cold mass in the Yukon territory. The Mercury dipped to 47 degrees below zero today at Mayo, Y. T.

intimidation of those employees who have remained at work."

Charge "Wild Statements"

Frank P. Longergan, division 20 vice president of CWA, replied the company "has made wild statements which are typical of the Bell system's policy to never tell the truth when a lie will do the job."

In a pamphlet that division 20 is publishing, the union said: "The continual strife in the telephone industry... is only bringing the day nearer when the government or some other responsible agency will have to operate the Bell system in the real interests of the public and (the Bell system) employees."

Longergan suggested that impartial parties meet with company and union representatives "and investigate statements of both sides."

As to the effectiveness of the picketing by members of another branch of the union, on strike against Western Electric Co., the Bell system equipment affiliate, Longergan said:

"The real purpose of this strike is not to deprive the public of necessary service but to cause the management as much inconvenience as it is causing the public and its employees. This is working."

"The company has been forced to bed down and feed in the neighborhood of 300 male operators in the St. Louis toll exchange alone. In many places the supervisors themselves are beginning to rebel at the forced imprisonment and treatment of Bell System executives."

The Southwest Bell spokesman said the picketing of its facilities yesterday was probably more widespread than any day since the strike against Western Electric started "as regards the number of places picketed. He added that the number of company employees affected was smaller than on other days."

He said pickets appeared in 12 cities served by the company early today.

At Fulton service went on an emergency basis at noon today after the appearance of two pickets at the Fulton exchange.

Pickets also appeared at Mexico. They left at noon after six hours of picketing, during which the exchange was on an emergency basis.

Defense of Near East Affects A Wide Area of Safety

By DeWitt MacKenzie

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The demand by young King Farouk of Egypt, in a formal "speech from the throne," that Britain clear out of the Suez Canal zone and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, creates a tense situation in one of the world's danger spots.

Farouk barely had finished speaking when he got his answer from London in a blunt rejection by a spokesman for the foreign office. The representative said Britain's "defense contracts" with Egypt will continue, adding:

"The defense of the Middle East is an issue which directly affects the peace and safety of many countries."

That states a great truth in a few words. The Middle East is one of the world's most important theatres strategically. It is so important that it could easily become the whelping ground of World War III.

This area, comprising many countries, is the great land bridge linking Europe, Asia and Africa. And it is cut by the man-made Suez canal which provides the only direct highway between the west and the Far East. As concerns Britain, it is her life-line to her vast interests in the distant Orient.

Twenty-Year Treaty

Britain and Egypt have been operating under a 20-year treaty signed in 1936. Britain has maintained armed forces in the canal zone.

The rich Anglo-Egyptian Sudan has been operated as a condominium, that is, two-nation supervision. This is a situation which long has irked Egypt, who claims the Sudan as her territory.

"THANKSGIVING" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Thursday, November 23, 1950. Golden Text: Ps. 107:21,22. Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases; who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies." (Ps. 103:2-4) The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following from the Christian Science Textbook: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Are we really grateful for the good already received? Then we shall avail ourselves of the blessings we have, and thus be fitted to receive more. Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks. Action expresses more gratitude than speech. If we are ungrateful for Life, Truth, and Love, and yet return thanks to God for all blessings, we are insincere and incur the sharp censure our Master pronounces on hypocrites. In such a case, the only acceptable prayer is to put the finger on the lips and remember our blessings." (p. 3)

Punctuality

"I have always been a quarter of an hour before my time," the great Lord Nelson once said, "and it has made a man of me." Punctuality seems at first thought to be a rather modest virtue. Actually it may be a key to a man's whole character.

The hero of Trafalgar evidently regarded punctuality as useful in shaping a career. Certainly no employer looks with favor on an employee who is habitually late for work. No one seeking a favor would risk alienating a man of influence by coming late to an appointment.

One has to be prompt in making income tax payment, meeting mortgage obligations, or paying insurance premiums. Too frequent tardiness in paying bills leads to loss of credit. Even in the business world punctuality is looked upon as no mean virtue. In the military sphere, where promptness in providing material and manpower is ever essential, it can mean the difference between defeat and victory.

We should not be concerned, however, over punctuality merely as good business practice or as a success-promoting habit. Punctuality is a virtue of much wider significance. It has important social and moral aspects. It bespeaks honesty. Basically, it is an attitude of consideration, justice and courtesy toward others.

If men owe it to their neighbors to be punctual at all times, they are much more deeply obliged to be punctual with God. It is difficult to understand why so many otherwise meticulous persons come to church late on Sundays—surely the one time in the week when courtesy to God is most to be expected.

Habitual tardiness in coming to church may be symptomatic or spiritual tepidity. Or it may be due to a lack of orderliness in the home. How many husbands have had to complain on Sunday-mornings because their wives have had to spend a precious ten minutes looking for a pair of gloves or a brooch to match their ensembles? Punctuality always involves a little thought and preparation. It is this fact that links it so closely also to the virtue of prudence—the watchword of the spiritually wise.

Sunday School Lesson

Worshipping in Spirit
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

One of the most remarkable stories in the Bible is that of the meeting of Jesus and the "woman of Samaria" at Jacob's Well, near the Samaritan city of Sychar. It is recorded in the fourth chapter of John.

It is remarkable for various things besides its major declaration of the Messiahship of Jesus, and His words concerning worship. It was remarkable that the meeting should have occurred at all, for it was contrary to custom and the assumed proprieties of the time that a man and woman should have thus been conversing in a public place. When the man was a Jew and the woman a Samaritan, it was all the more amazing as the woman herself indicated in her question to Jesus.

This aspect of the incident is important as it revealed how Jesus lived above the conventions and prejudices of His day, practicing in His relationships the principles of the kingdom of love that He had come to establish.

But the great importance of the incident was in the statement of Jesus concerning worship in spirit and in truth. Nowhere else, except it be in later chapters of John, is the statement concerning God as a spirit, and true worship, quite so clearly enunciated. How did it come that so great a declaration should have been made to a woman, whose questionable character Jesus mildly but pointedly brought out?

Was it that he saw in this woman, beneath her unconventional "sex life," as one might call it today, the elements and possibilities of a nobler character, which seemed to emerge as she went in to the city?

Be that as it may, here is set down the greatest declaration concerning God and worship. Later translations omit the "a," saying only "God is spirit." This is conformable with God's being everywhere. In an age of radio, which has taught us to know that physical vibrations are everywhere present, we can comprehend more easily the mystery of God as Spirit, everywhere manifest, and everywhere to be worshipped.

The woman's question concerning Jerusalem and "this mountain" was historically apt. The tendency had been, as to some extent it is today, to localize worship in certain sacred places. At one period of reform in the religion of Israel a definite effort had been made to center all worship in Jerusalem, as a barrier against the idolatrous worship in the "high places." But the worship of God in spirit and in truth is the natural outcome of the recognition of God's spiritual presence everywhere.

What does it mean to worship God in spirit and in truth? It means that worship is something more than bowing down and performing certain rites. It means a perception of God as the One supremely good, the source of all righteousness and truth; and it means the yielding of the heart and mind to the quest of the knowledge of God and of the divine will.

As a friend used to say to me, "No religion is true that it not as broad as a man's whole life." The spirit of man controls his whole being and worship in spirit is the whole man reaching out toward God. That worship can and must be wherever man is; and holy places are holy only as they help in that omnipresent quest of the omnipresent God.

India's President Raps Sex Appeal

NEW DELHI—(P)—“If I had the power, I would stop the showing of films with sex appeal,” says Dr. Rajendra Prasad, President of India.

“Such films are playing havoc in our society and having a bad effect on the minds of men and women,” he told the first All-India Conference on moral and social hygiene. It was understood he was referring to Indian motion pictures.

Three Record Makers to Be in Action

Oklahoma Will Throw Full Power Against Tigers

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 17.—(P)—Three Big Seven conference football record makers will be in action at Lincoln, Neb., tomorrow where Iowa State will shoot its passing game against the running of Nebraska's Bobby Reynolds.

Iowa State will be the underdog but it will have two record holders on its side—Dorner Bill Weeks and end Jim Doran. Both are seniors.

Reynolds, the midland's outstanding candidate for all America in his first season of half-backing, has made conference records in scoring, 126 points, and in rushing yardage, 1151 for 164 carries in 7 games.

The Nebraska flash tops the country in scoring, is third in rushing.

Weeks' 1296 passing yardage this fall is a conference record. Doran, who leads the conference in receiving with 581 yards, set the league mark of 689 last year.

A game back of Oklahoma in the standings, Nebraska must win this one to stay in the running for the championship. Oklahoma (4-0) and Nebraska (3-1) will meet at Norman Nov. 25.

Iowa State hasn't won since 1945, but Nebraska's victory margin the past three games has not exceeded 7 points.

Elsewhere around the circuit: There was bad news for the Missouri Tigers from the Oklahoma Sooners. The Sooners reported they would have their full manpower in top shape for the Missourians in their game at Norman tomorrow.

It will be the first time since the opener with Boston College that Coach Bud Wilkinson will be ready to call on all his hands.

Missouri will spend the night at Oklahoma City. So will the Oklahoma Sooners who come up from nearby Norman to escape the noise of a real football hotbed.

The Kansas Jayhawks also will be in full force for their annual battle with Kansas State at Manhattan.

Elmer Criviston and Hi Faution, Kansas State's top backs who were injured in early season, were out for practice yesterday, but neither is expected to see much action.

At Boulder, Colo., the Colorado Buffaloes reached a climax in their preparations for invading Oregon.

Sooners Chance To Clinch Tie

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 17.—(P)—Oklahoma's football team can clinch a tie for Big Seven conference crown and stretch its victory streak to 29 straight by whipping Missouri here tomorrow.

A crowd of more than 45,000 is expected for the clash of two split-T formation clubs. Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson has been remarkably successful in using the split-T which he learned from its originator, Missouri's Don Faurot.

Wilkinson is optimistic about his team's chances if it plays the way it did in coming from behind last Saturday to whip Kansas, 33-13.

However, the Oklahoma mentor pointed out Missouri is better than most persons think and its air attack, led by quarterback Phil Klein, is a dangerous weapon.

Klein and John Glorioso have passed for seven of Missouri's 19 touchdowns in the last five games. Oklahoma unveiled a potent passing attack last week as Claude Arnold pitched for four of the Sooners' five touchdowns.

Oklahoma's defense will be bolstered with the return of Tommy Gray, defensive halfback.

Cubs Offer to Settle Springfield Mortgage

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 17.—(P)—The Cubs Thursday made a 50-cents on the dollar proposal to clear up a $21,500 mortgage they hold on the Springfield baseball park.

The Cubs notified officials here they would clear the debt and turn over to Springfield a Western Association franchise, if paid only half the amount owed them.

Meanwhile, the Association has informed baseball directors here they have until Nov. 21 to post $3,000 cash, plus a letter guaranteeing $10,000, if its outright hookup with the Cubs at the close of last season, and John Sheehan, director of the Chicago farm system, said today the Cubs will not give Springfield a working agreement.

"If we decide to operate in the Western Association next season, we will have a working agreement with Topeka, Kas.," Sheehan said.

If Springfield's baseball fans are unable to raise the money to pay off the mortgage, the Cubs probably will offer a similar 50-cents on the dollar deal to other investors, Sheehan said. Sheehan valued the baseball property at "approximately $50,000."

Sammy Baugh Ready to Quit Pro Ranks for Coaching Job

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(P)—When it comes to naming new football coaches this winter there is a guy playing pro football by the name of Sammy Baugh that the power that be might consider.

The passing wizard of the Washington Redskins has let it be known that he's thinking beyond his playing days for the first time in 14 years.

The 36-year-old former Texas Christian star turned down an offer to coach Baylor last winter but will probably be in a more receptive mood this winter.

There are already vacancies coming up at Texas where Blair Cherry steps out and Minnesota where Bernie Bierman has stated his intention to leave the Golden Gophers.

May Go To Texas Sammy probably won't be considered for the Big Ten job but it appears a cinch he would be a strong contender for the Texas spot if he so desired. Blair Cherry is a former T. C. U. man like Sam and Sam certainly ranks among the all-time greats of Texas football.

Sammy says he thinks he'd be on the sidelines today if the U. S. Marine Corps hadn't taken Eddie Le Baron, the little All-American quarterback from the College of the Pacific, away from the Redskins.

Waits For Le Baron "I'm ready to quit as soon as they don't need me," Sam said. "I figure that'll be when Le Baron comes out of service."

Or, he might have added, when the Redskins come up with Kyle Rote or Bob Williams in the draft this winter. The Skins, who now have a seven-game losing streak, will probably get first or second choice in the draft if the war things are going.

It's often been reported Sam was washed up and ready to quit, but he's kept coming back for more. However, it looks as though he has finally hit the trail for the last round because he is no longer the Redskins No. one quarterback.

Harry Gilmer from Alabama took over that job this year when Baugh injured his throwing arm. Baugh recently piloted the Tribe against Philadelphia and New York only because Gilmer was injured. Coach Herman Ball has made it clear that Sam is only a second-stringer now.

The turn of events hasn't affected Sam one way or another because he chose Gilmer as his successor and has groomed him for the job.

"I'd like to coach," Sam said not too long ago, "when I'm through playing football."

Straight Life Ins. Policy at Age of 97

LARNED, Kas., Nov. 17.—(P)—Mrs. Elizabeth Converse, 97, received $1,000 in a rare event.

She collected on an ordinary life insurance policy.

Mrs. Converse, who lived in Great Bend until last April, took the policy out in 1895. Insurance men here said it was extremely rare for a policy holder to collect on a straight life policy.

The check was delivered to her by O. W. Pankratz of Salina, an agent for the company (Fidelity Life Association of Fulton, Ill.).

Mrs. Converse, who had lived in Barton county since 1872, had 13 children, four of whom still are living. The oldest is Mrs. Ida Dunn, Phoenix, Ariz., who is 76. The others are Mrs. Ella Clark, Stillwell, Okla.; Mrs. Lettie Lewis, Detroit; and Mrs. Adis Childers, Redwood City, Calif.

Mules to Play Eleven End Grid Careers At S-C Tonight

PITTSBURG, Kas., Nov. 17.—(P)—The Central College Mules of Warrensburg, Mo., have been selected to play Pittsburg State College in the first Mirza Shrine bowl game here Dec. 2.

The selection of the Missouri team was announced today by Dr. K. J. Bierlein of Pittsburg, chairman of the Shrine committee in charge of the game.

Each team has lost twice this season. Benefits of the game will be given to the Crippled Childrens Hospital at St. Louis.

Bob Hope Sues Life Magazine

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(P)—Comedian Bob Hope Thursday filed a $2,010,000 damage suit against Life magazine and radio columnist John Crosby, charging they libeled him by asserting he stole Comedian Fred Allen's jokes.

Hope alleged that the Nov. 6 issue of Life, under the title "Seven Deadly Sins of the Air," implied he was guilty of plagiarism, a practice which he said the entertainment industry regards as unethical.

Defending his reputation "as a top comedian" who can stand on his own gags, Hope charged that 5,000,000 copies of the magazine exposed him to ridicule, contempt and hatred, and caused him to be shunned and avoided.

Five Killed in Air Crash

Five navy men were killed when a two-engine training plane, which was enroute from Lincoln, Neb., to New Orleans, La., crashed in the clouds on Rich mountain a 3,000-foot peak in the Ouachita range, near Page, Oklahoma. The wreckage shown was found by a game ranger. The victims, all officers, were dead when the ranger arrived at the scene. (NEA Telephoto)

Reds Sell Vienna Houses

VIENNA —(P)—House-hungry Vienna is gaining something from Communism. The real estate market in the Austrian capital has suddenly taken a turn for the better. Scores of houses and offices whose owner live in nearby Communist Hungary are being offered for sale.

Vienna newspapers report that Hungarian owners have been forced to turn over the rights to the Communist government. And the government now is selling all the property—and keeping the cash.

Whereas, Ervin Leroy Stephens and Grace Lorene Stephens, husband and wife, by their deed of trust dated the 23rd day of July, 1949, and recorded in the Office of the Recorder of Deeds of Pettis County, Missouri, in Trust Deed Record Book 454, at page 73, made conveyance in trust of the following described real estate situated in Pettis County, Missouri, to-wit:

The west half of Lots Two (2) and Three (3) in Block Three (3) of McVey's Second Addition to the City of Sedalia, Missouri, which said deed of trust was made to secure the payment of the certain promissory note in said deed of trust described, and whereas, in the certain suit in the Circuit Court of Pettis County, Missouri, wherein Dorothy Rossman is plaintiff and Ervin Leroy Stephens and Grace Lorene Stephens are defendants, the said Circuit Court by its judgment entered on the 13th day of November, 1950, ordered the foreclosure of said deed of trust and ordered the Sheriff of Pettis County, Missouri, to sell said real estate pursuant to the terms of said deed of trust and of said judgment;

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that I, the undersigned, the Sheriff of Pettis County, Missouri, will sell the above described real estate at public venue to the highest bidder for cash at the west front door of the Court House in the City of Sedalia, Pettis County, Missouri, on Monday, the 11th day of December, 1950, between the hours of 9 o'clock in the forenoon and 5 o'clock in the afternoon of that day and while the said Circuit Court is in session in compliance with said judgment of said court.

JOHN F. TAYLOR,
Sheriff of Pettis County, Missouri.

Green Ridge

Mrs. Verna Palmer

Mrs. Wilford Acker, assisted by Mrs. Russell Miller was hostess to the members of the Mutual Improvement Club of Green Ridge, on Saturday afternoon, November 11, at her home in the south part of town. The president, Mrs. Glen Morrow, presided at the business session, which opened the Club Symposium repeated in unison by the members. During the meeting plans were made to make Friendship Scrap Books to be sent to clubs in foreign countries. The members are planning also to send Christmas packages to the Navajo Indians as they have done the past few years. The program was in charge of the Literature Department. Mrs. Forrest Calvert presented Mrs. Jule Wall of Windsor, who gave a very interesting review of the book, "Cross Winds," by Martha Cheavens.

The annual Christmas party of the club will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Egbert, southwest of Green Ridge.

After the meeting adjourned refreshments were served by the hostesses to fourteen members and one guest, Mrs. Jule Wall, of Windsor.

The Green Ridge independent basketball team won their first game of the season on Saturday night, Nov. 4th, over the Lincoln Five by a score of 70 to 51 on the Green Ridge high school ball court.

Bill Jones, son of Supt. and Mrs. Maynard Jones, of Green Ridge, was the guest of honor at a party in celebration of his third birthday anniversary at the home of his parents in northwest Green Ridge on Monday afternoon, Nov. 6.

Guests included: Larry Brown, Richard, Mary and Kathryn Ashley, Henry Ashley, Monty, Mike Ragar, Mrs. Royal Ragar, Shirley Embree and Mrs. Earl Embree, all of Green Ridge; Mrs. Katie Spaulding, of Mone, Mo. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

The work of razing the Green Ridge Presbyterian church manse started the latter part of last week. Several of the church members are donating their work. The church members plan to erect a modern dwelling on the old site. Mr. Wilford Acker is in charge of tearing down the building. The Rev. and Mrs. J. G. W. Kirschner and family have temporary living quarters in the Presbyterian church.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. D. O'Neill of Elsberry, Mo., announce the birth of a daughter at the Missouri Baptist hospital in St. Louis on Monday, Nov. 6. Mrs. O'Neill was formerly Miss Lucy Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Carter, Sr., of Green Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Binder were hosts at a family dinner at their home in southwest Green Ridge on Sunday recently. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Binder and children, Judy, Linda and Wayne, of Windsor, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Street and sons, Lyle and Larry, Mr. and Mrs. George White, Mr. and Mrs. Quintin Binder and daughter, Patty, and Mr.

and Mrs. Leroy Ryan, all of Green Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Sanders of Green Ridge, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Gilkey and son, Larry, of Deepwater, Mo., drove last week-end to Kimmunity, Illinois, where they spent the week-end as guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Shaffer and family. Mesdames Sanders, Gilkey and Shaffer were classmates while taking nurses training.

Norman C. Thiele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thiele of near Green Ridge left last Wednesday for Kansas City, Mo., for induction into the armed forces.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hoard of Cole Camp spent Saturday night as guests of their daughter, Mrs. Homer Carter, Jr., and family in Green Ridge. On Sunday they were dinner guests in the home of another daughter, Mrs. Harold Lee Baslee, Mr. Baslee and son, Ricky.

Mrs. Ida Rank has returned to her home in Green Ridge, following a two weeks visit at the home of her son, Mr. Albert Rank, and Mrs. Rank, at Perry, Kansas, and at the home of her brother, Mr. W. H. Foster, in Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Anderson were recent Green Ridge visitors in the homes of relatives on Saturday. On Sunday, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Geigley and Mr. and Mrs. Eri Anderson, of Green Ridge, they drove to Adrian, Mo., to see the farm that Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Anderson had purchased recently near Adrian.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Fricke of Herculaneum, Mo., spent the week-end visiting with Mrs.

Democrats Wreck GOP Attempts To Alter The Administration's Excess Profits Tax Levy

Opposition to Tax Increase Is Growing

By BARNEY LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 —(P)—Democrats on the House ways and means committee squashed three Republican efforts today to bring up substitutes for the excess profits tax program favored by the Truman administration.

Determined to rush a $4,000,000,000 (B) tax bill to completion by Dec. 1, the Democrats made use of their 15 to 10 majority on the committee to block the presentation of alternative tax proposals.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said the course taken was the only practicable one if Congress is to consider an excess profits tax during the brief "lame duck" session scheduled to start Nov. 27.

Emphatic Opposition
In spite of the Democrats' decision, a number of business witnesses were able to make clear their emphatic opposition to the 75 per cent tax on abnormally high corporation profits, suggested yesterday by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and backed by President Truman.

With the help of questioning by Republican committeemen, the business men were able to get their ideas into the record. In general, they favored these revenue-raising substitutes for an excess profits tax:

Normal Rate Now 45
1. A general increase in the normal corporation income tax up to 60 per cent. (The maximum normal tax rate is now 45 per cent.)

2. Increases in the individual income tax rate.

3. New manufacturers or retailers excise taxes and increases in some existing excise levies.

Three times, by straight party votes of 15 to 10, the Democrat-dominated committee refused to let witnesses propose their own tax plans or put written statements into the record.

Bills Die At Session's End
Doughton, answering Republican complaints of "gag" and "steamroller tactics," said unless testimony was limited to the excess profits tax, the committee would be unable to have a bill ready soon after Congress returns Nov. 27. Any bill pending at the end of the session automatically dies.

"It is not for me to judge the motives of members of our committee," Doughton said, "but everyone familiar with the circumstances knows that under the procedure proposed by the Republican members, no tax legislation whatever would be possible at this session of Congress, despite the dire need for additional taxes."

House Approval Expected
House Republican leader Martin of Massachusetts, who is not a member of the ways and means group, told newsmen he foresees no chance for enactment of an excess profits tax bill at the coming short session, although he said such a measure probably would pass the House.

"An excess profits tax at this session is political by-play," Martin said. "There will be some demagoguery in the House, but they know there's no chance in the Senate."

Bob Hope Sues Life Magazine

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16—(P)—Comedian Bob Hope today filed a $200,000 damage suit against Life magazine and radio columnist John Crosby, charging they libeled him by asserting he stole comedian Fred Allen's jokes.

Hope alleged that the Nov. 6 issue of Life, under the title "Seven Deadly Sins of the Air," implied he was guilty of plagiarism, a practice which he said the entertainment industry regards as unethical.

Defending his reputation "as a top comedian" who can stand on his own legs, Hope charged that 5,000,000 copies of the magazine exposed him to ridicule, contempt and hatred, and caused him to be shunned and avoided.

Presstime Bulletins

Air Force Planes Collide, Crash

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 16—(P)—Thirteen airmen were killed and 10 survived a collision of two Air Force planes over the desert 50 miles west of here today.

Lt. Elwin Piwetz, public information officer at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base here, said it has not been determined whether the survivors are injured. He said the two four-motored planes, a B-29 and a B-50 bomber, plunged to the ground five miles north of the Papago Indian village of Silnakya on the Sells reservation.

The rugged country is extremely difficult to reach on foot. Piwetz could give no detailed description of what happened.

Aluminum Plants to be Reopened

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(P)—The government tonight offered substantial financial incentives to aluminum producers helping to increase production of a metal vitally needed in the defense program.

At the same time the General Service Administration announced that two large aluminum plants of the Aluminum Company of America will be reopened. These are expected to produce 55,000 tons of metal next year and 79,000 tons a year thereafter. National production is at the rate of 750,000 tons.

Telephone Pickets in Reported Fight

VERNON, Tex., Nov. 16—(P)—A Western Electric worker picket was either hit or shoved and told to get out of town when he appeared at the local exchange today. He and companions in a nearby auto left the scene.

Normally there are no Western Electric Workers here. The man identified himself as from Wichita Falls. It was the first picketing of the Vernon exchange.

Jack Burney of the Vernon Record arrived in time to witness part of the incident.

He said Southwestern Bell operators claimed the picket was "slugged" but other bystanders claimed he was only pushed.

The incident occurred about mid-morning, witnesses said, when four or five men arrived and shoved or hit the picket. All witnesses agreed that the men told the picket to "Get out of town."

Air Force Command Shifts Office

Move May be for Protection Of Defense's Nerve Center

By ROGER D. GREENE
WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(P)—Headquarters for the nation's defense against air attack will be shifted from New York to Colorado Springs, Colo., early in 1951, the Air Force announced today.

The move will thus take the key headquarters to the western half of the United States—some 1,630 miles from the Atlantic coast—with control over both the east and west air defense forces.

The swing to the west once again lent emphasis to the strategic concept that if present tension with Russia should erupt into World War III, the gravest danger of aerial blows against the United States would focus on the northwest "gateway."

Pentagon officials were reluctant to discuss reasons for the shift, but one obvious motive would be to provide greater protection for the important air defense "nerve center" by locating it far inland. It was pointed out that guided missiles, conceivably with atomic warheads, could be fired from submarines lying a few miles off the present headquarters at Mitchell Field, Long Island, N. Y.

Location South Of Denver
The Air Force said 800 military and civilian personnel will be assigned to the new headquarters at Colorado Springs, about 70 miles south of Denver on the eastern fringes of the Rocky mountains.

Lt. Gen. Ennis C. Whitehead will take over command of the new headquarters. He is now chief of the Continental Air command based at Mitchell Field.

The Air Force said the air defense command will establish its permanent headquarters early next year at Ent Air Force Base, Colorado Springs, which served as headquarters of the Second Air Force during World War II. The base was named in honor of Maj. Gen. Uzal G. Ent, who was killed in a bomber crash in October, 1944.

East-West Command
Gen. Whitehead's command will direct the existing eastern air defense force, headquarters at Newburgh, N. Y., and the western force at San Rafael, Calif.

Although based on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, the two forces have fields strategically located across the country. The eastern command extends to the east side of the Rockies, while the western force takes in the remainder of the United States.

Sets Record With High Corn Yield; 144.6 Bushel An Acre
MARSHALL, Mo., Nov. 16—(P)—Harvey Dierking came up today with one of the biggest corn yields recorded in Saline county.

On a five-acre tract his yield was 144.6 bushels an acre.

He was one of 16 contestants in the second annual contest sponsored by the Marshall high school vocational agriculture department. Average yield of all the contestants was 116 bushels an acre.

Story Refuted By Testimony Of Detective

OLATHE, Kas., Nov. 16—(P)—A private detective testified today that the car in which Miss Dorothy Kellogg died had not been moved back and forth after it became stalled in a ditch near Lenexa, Kas.

The detective, George W. Robinson, Independence, Mo., was the second defense witness in the first degree manslaughter trial of W. C. (Casey) Jones, prominent Olathe attorney. Miss Kellogg, Jones' secretary, died in his car after it became stalled in the ditch last Jan. 20.

The state contends the woman suffered fatal head injuries when Jones rocked the car in an attempt to free it. Miss Kellogg, the state says, was pinned between the seat and the opened door of the vehicle.

Robinson said the car's right rear wheel, which was stuck in the ditch, could not have moved back and forth more than three inches. He added that the vehicle's differential had dug into the dirt, tending to anchor the car.

In cross-examining the detective, County Attorney John Anderson, Jr., attempted to show that the car was rocked before it became imbedded.

In his opening statement, Howard E. Payne, co-defense counsel, indicated the defendant will testify later that he was unable to budge the car after it went into the ditch.

The state rested its case this afternoon. The trial was recessed after Robinson's testimony until Friday morning.

Payne, in the opening statement, traced Jones' movements the night before the accident and said he would seek to show that Miss Kellogg had been drinking before she accompanied her employer to Kansas City. The car became stuck in the ditch as the two were returning from Kansas City to Olathe.

He said the defense would seek to show that Miss Kellogg started to fall from the car as it turned a corner, Jones made a grab for her and as a result the car went into the ditch. He related that Miss Kellogg had become ill several times on the trip home from Kansas City.

As the defense took over the case, attorneys for Jones sought a clarification of the information filed against him by County Attorney John Anderson. They asked whether he was being tried on a manslaughter charge, a felony, or driving while under the influence of liquor.

Anderson replied that he was trying Jones under the manslaughter charge.

Rise of Casualties Over Week Ago

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—(P)—Announced American casualties in the Korean war rose today to 28,881, an increase of 646 over a week ago.

The figure is for casualties whose next of kin were notified through Nov. 10. Actual casualties have been larger since reports to next of kin often lag several weeks behind the casualties.

Of the total announced by the defense department today, 4,798 were deaths. Non-fatally wounded numbered 19,740.

Persons reported at one time or another to have been missing in action totaled 4,347. Of these, 517 have since returned to United Nations military control, four have died and 107 are in enemy hands. This left the number still missing on Nov. 10 at 3,719.

The Army has suffered by far the largest number of casualties, 24,989, compared to 3,375 for the Marines, 311 for the Navy and 206 for the Air Force.

The dead were: Army 4,049; Marine Corps 627; Navy 49; and Air Force 73.

Storm Knocks Out Power

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 16—(P)—A heavy rain and electrical storm knocked out telephones and power lines and flooded sewers here last night.

At some intersections policemen were knee deep in water, opening sewer outlets clogged with leaves. Rainfall totaled 1.61 inches in about an hour.

About 750 telephones were knocked out of service, including one line to the State Highway Patrol's troop F headquarters.

Lightning hit the Missouri river bridge, burning out cables supplying power and phone service to the area north of the bridge. The whole northside area was in darkness until 11 p.m.

Jaycee Sponsored

Plans for the big Christmas parade to be held in Sedalia on Friday, December 1 at 2 p. m. are nearing completion. As previously announced the Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce has arranged to bring the Earl F. Hammond nationally known Christmas parade unit here for the big show.

Parade Includes Reindeer

Enthusiasm is running high up and down Ohio avenue and all around town as more and more people are realizing that this event promises to be the biggest of its kind ever put on in Se-

Chinese-Korean Reds Offer Allied Forces Spotty Resistance; Rising Temperatures

SEOUL, Friday, Nov. 17 — (P) — Allied troops scratched out gains up to five miles against spotty Red resistance in a general advance along the sleet-struck fighting front in North Korea Thursday.

The sleet made the going rough for the foot soldiers, and cut down the around-the-clock bombing of Red bases and supply centers. Temperatures rose from previous near-zero levels, however.

Chinese and Korean Communists pulled back a little more in the northwest and north-central sectors. The steam went out of a North Korean Red counter-attack in the far northeast.

The U. S. First Corps advanced on a 30-mile front in the north-west against practically no opposition.

On the west end of the line, the Korean Republican First division moved four miles northwest of Pakchon, seven miles north of the Chongchon river.

The British Commonwealth 27th brigade rolled through Pakchon and pushed about three miles north. British patrols ventured another mile and one-half ahead and found no trace of Reds.

Reds Pull Back Ten Miles
Chinese and North Korean Red divisions, once reported digging in on high ground west of Pakchon, now were reported to have pulled back ten miles.

Northeast of Pakchon, the U. S. 24th division advanced up to a mile and one-half and sent patrols as far as Yongson. The U. S. First Cavalry division moved almost a mile north of the old walled city of Yongbyon. The two divisions were in an arc along a front 15 miles northeast of Pakchon.

These advances swelled the allied Chongchon river bridgehead northward and westward.

On the bridgehead's east side, the Korean republic's Second corps struggled back to Tokchon, 25 miles east of Yongbyon, and thereby regained most of the four miles lost to counterattacking Reds earlier in the week.

In snow-covered mountains east of the bridgehead, U. S. Seventh regiment Marines skirmished with outposts of a Red force of unestimated size after a three-mile Marine advance west of the Changjin reservoir.

A prisoner said Chinese troops were assembling in large numbers in mountains west of the reservoir. The entire Chinese 42nd Army, about equal in numbers to two American divisions, may be massing in the area.

Advance Five Miles North
To the northeast, the U. S. Seventh infantry division sent one spearhead up the east banks of the Pujon reservoir and another—the U. S. 17th regiment—five miles north to the 41st parallel against Red tanks, artillery and infantry. The advance, Thursday's biggest, put the 17th only 20 miles south of the Manchurian border on the road to Kapsan.

Red troops were reported pulling back for a stand at Kapsan, five miles north of the American positions.

Pickets Hamper Operations at Local Telephone Office Again Thursday Afternoon, Evening

Pickets operating around the Bell Telephone Company in Sedalia withdrew their lines at 8:45 Thursday night. Local Manager Tom Mullaly said at that time he had no information as to whether this was a temporary measure or the pickets had moved to another city in compliance with their hit-and-run policy. Mullaly said he expected local union employees whose shifts begin later Thursday to come to work as per schedule. In the absence of regular switchboard operators the exchange used a record to answer calls when supervisory personnel were swamped.

Hit-and-run pickets hit the Sedalia branch of the Bell Telephone Company again at 3:27 Thursday afternoon.

As in past instances union members of the CWA-CIO employed in the local exchange refused to cross the picket lines. This included those employees working split shifts, and those whose working day started at 4 and 5 o'clock.

Bodies of Dead From Plane

HEAVENER, Okla., Nov. 16—(P)—A crew of volunteers brought the bodies of five naval officers here late yesterday from the rugged mountain area where their two-engine plane crashed in a fog Tuesday night.

Heavener Police Chief Homer Johnston said climbing was "very difficult" in the rough terrain.

He said "we went through miles of rough country. It took us five hours to make the trip."

The crash scene was atop Rich mountain in the Ouachita National forest along the Oklahoma-Arkansas border about 45 miles southwest of Fort Smith, Ark. The plane was enroute to Barksdale Field, Shreveport, La., from Lincoln, Neb., Naval Air Station.

Victims were identified as: Lt. Comdr. Alfred G. Epp, 30, New Orleans; Lt. Comdr. Irvin H. McPherson, 36, Glen Ellyn, Ill.; Lt. Norvin K. Scheffer, 29, Gretna, La., and Lt. Eddie O. Phillips and Lt. William Q. Stroud, Shreveport, La.

Regular Shifts Will Continue
Mullaly said the local exchange will continue its policy of allowing their employees to work only their regular shifts. Those who refuse to cross the picket lines will not be allowed to work that day regardless of the time of the picket's departure. The employees will be welcome to work their shift the next day, however. He emphasized that his office cannot operate on a hit-and-miss schedule.

According to one of the pickets the men walking the lines Thursday are the same who were here Monday, at Louisiana, Mo., Tuesday, and at Jefferson City Wednesday. For reasons of security the picket would not divulge his home town or the place the pickets would strike next.

Christmas Parade Plans Near Completion

The hour long Hammond unit will include such delights for the youngsters as Santa in his sleigh being drawn by real live reindeer, an old time steam calliope, Alaskan Husky dog team, a corol singers float drawn by trained white midget mules, clowns, and Mardi Gras figures.

Few Entries Already In

There will be the Three Little Pigs float, the Snow White and the Seven Dwarf float, the beautiful Nativity float and many others as well as a profusion of bands, Boy Scouts and balloons. Invitations have been extended to all Central Missouri schools to enter floats, and send their school bands. Local business houses, industries and clubs have been invited to enter floats and cards are arriving at the Chamber's office daily signifying their intention to participate.

Thousands Expected

The big parade will open Sedalia's Christmas season and everyone agrees that the many thousands expected to view the spectacle will come away brimful of the good old Christmas spirit.

The Christmas Decorations Committee of the Chamber of Commerce has promised that everything will be in readiness for the big event. Plans this year include the stringing of several new strands of greenery across Ohio avenue and Main street as well as the beautiful new electrically lighted plastic figurines which will be suspended above the street. The Chapel, bright and fresh with a new coat of paint will again be erected at the court house entrance and Santa and his reindeer will take up their familiar position on the court house lawn. Everything points to a gala celebration and one of the biggest crowds in Sedalia's history.

Gramlich-Felten Wedding

Miss Patricia Gramlich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gramlich of Clifton City, became the bride of Mr. Lyle Felten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Felten of Clear Creek, at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Clifton City at 9:00 a.m. Saturday morning, October 14.

The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Patrick H. Hanley before an altar decorated with gladioli, chrysanthemums, garden flowers and burning tapers.

Mrs. Jess Comer of Sedalia played the traditional wedding march from Lohengrin. At the nuptial mass Mrs. Al Miles sang "Mother Beloved," "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother," "Oh Lord I Am Not Worthy," and "Ave Maria." Following the ceremony the organist played the recessional from Mendelssohn.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned with high neckline and yoke edged with cotton brocade. The fitted bodice which came to a point was fastened down the front with tiny satin covered buttons.

The long sleeves tapering to a point over the wrists, and the full gathered skirt lengthened into an aisle-wide train. The veil of bridal illusion was held in place by a half-hat of white satin covered with lace. The bride's only ornament was a triple strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds, stephanotis and greenery tied with white satin moline streamers.

Miss Geraldine Schuster of Boonville, niece of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gold satin gown designed with marquisette lace-trimmed yoke, basque bodice, and full hooped skirt caught in front with tiny rosebuds. TULSA, Okla., Nov. 16.—(P)—Tulsa's 75,000 city bus riders, toughened to sporadic transit strikes for the last five years, took their newest transportation tieup in stride today.

They awoke to find 300 union drivers and mechanics away from their Tulsa city lines jobs in a contract dispute over wages.

But warned for days that a walkout was almost certain, the patrons got to work one way or another—by taxicab, by a newly-licensed jitney service or foot. So did the school children.

Housewives, however, were stranded, and this annoyed downtown merchants, eager for an early start on their Christmas sales.

The absence of the buses on the streets brought out more private automobiles, tangling rush hour traffic.

Nearly 150 persons were granted jitney licenses to follow bus routes, picking up all the passengers they could. Few drivers were women who said they could use the money for Christmas.

It was Tulsa's fifth bus strike in as many years and the second since last January. And no early settlement was in sight.

The drivers and mechanics, members of the AFL Motor Coach operators, voted at an early morning meeting not to continue negotiations for a new contract. The old agreement expired midnight last night. Union representatives and management broke off talks some hours earlier, rejecting a proposal by Mayor George Stoner to keep the buses rolling while arbitrating their differences.

No counter-offer has been made by the TCL to a union request for a 25-cent-an-hour raise for mechanics, 15 cents for drivers. The union wants to keep a 48-hour week for drivers but log eight hours off for mechanics to make it a 40-hour week.

Wages scales now range from $1.26 an hour for busmen to $1.47 hourly for maintenance workers.

Sedan Demolished—Truck Wrecked

The top photograph shows what is left of the 1950 Dodge sedan of Quentin E. Ehret, 36, St. Louis, which was in an accident with the Chevrolet two-ton Stag truck, top, about 5:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon 13 miles north of Sedalia on Highway 65. The Dodge was demolished. Note in the bottom picture the front part of the sedan was ripped off and dropped alongside the truck, while on the corner of the truck body is a portion of the Dodge body embedded into the truck as if it had been crimped into the body. Raymond Kurtz, 1301 South Grand avenue, driver of the truck escaped injury, while Ehret suffered a fracture of the pelvis, severe laceration of the nose and slight contusions of the face. Two Thousand To Warsaw Meet

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 16.—(P)—More than 2,000 delegates from 60 countries crowded into Warsaw today for the opening of the Communist-line second world peace congress, adjourned from Sheffield, Eng.

A press office said the congress would start at 6 p. m. (noon, Eastern Standard time).

More delegates were arriving hourly.

(Officials of the U. S. high commission's board at Wiesbaden, Germany, said they were preparing a protest against dozens of unauthorized flights by Czech transport planes engaged in the airlift of delegates from Sheffield. The British government banned so many delegates from the country, on the ground that their activities might undermine western determination to build up defense against possible Communist aggression that the Sheffield congress was adjourned after a one-day session.)

The city's five hotels were full of delegates and many visitors were being lodged in private homes.

Since midnight, five special trains and countless special flights of aircraft had brought delegates in from Berlin, Paris, Prague, Moscow and other points.

Miss Lula Monroe, 81, Spring Fork, fell at her home Wednesday night and broke her right hip just below the socket. Miss Wynona Elliott, with whom she has lived five years, called Dr. D. R. Edwards and he had Miss Monroe taken to the Bothwell hospital in the McLaughlin brothers ambulance.

Miss Elliott said Miss Monroe had stepped onto the back door to get a kettle of water from a well. She either tripped, or her knee was thrown out of joint, and she fell backwards onto a concrete platform. Her condition is considered satisfactory and she is resting well.

Miss Monroe has been a resident of Pettis county for over 70 years, and is a sister of Frank Monroe, 232 South Kentucky avenue.

Straight Life Ins. Policy at Age of 97

LARNED, Kas., Nov. 16.—(P)—Mrs. Elizabeth Converse, 97, received $1,000 in a rare event.

She collected on an ordinary life insurance policy.

Mrs. Converse, who lived in Great Bend until last April, took the policy out in 1895. Insurance men here said it was extremely rare for a policy holder to collect on a straight life policy.

The check was delivered to her by O. W. Pankratz of Salina, an agent for the company (Fidelity Life Association of Fulton, Ill.). Mrs. Converse, who had lived in Barton county since 1872, had 13 children, four of whom still are living. The oldest is Mrs. Ida Dunn, Phoenix, Ariz., who is 76. The others are Mrs. Ella Clark, Stillwell, Okla.; Mrs. Lettie Lewis, Detroit, and Mrs. Adis Childers, Redwood City, Calif.

Wants British Troops Taken Out of Egypt

Quick Rejection Of Demands From King Farouk

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 16.—(P)—Egypt's government stated formally today it no longer regards its 1936 treaty with Britain as legal.

But although King Farouk's speech from the throne at the opening session of parliament made this assertion, and added "There is no other alternative than to decide its cancellation," the government stopped short of formal denunciation of the treaty.

The throne speech indicated instead that Egypt hopes Britain will recognize its demands to remove British troops immediately from the Suez Canal zone and permit the unification of the Sudan with Egypt under King Farouk's rule.

A main clause of the 1936 agreement is its authorization to maintain British troops in the strategic canal zone until 1956.

First reaction of western observers was that the speech was drafted in diplomatic doubletalk which could—and probably would be—interpreted both as a cancellation and not a cancellation.

Some thought the hint of denunciation was intended as a political sop to popular feeling which strongly favors British evacuation. The British have been occupying Egyptian soil for 68 years.

Official British sources declined immediate comment. One source said the throne speech was "vague" on the subject.

Police In Action
Disturbances in Cairo's streets increased as the Egyptian leaders met in parliament. An estimated 1,000 police went into action outside the offices of the weekly opposition newspaper Akhbar El Yom after a mob attacked the building with stones and other missiles.

A number of policemen were injured in quelling the disturbance. One unconfirmed report said five police were killed. A student was killed in front of the building yesterday.

Mobs attacked several other buildings including a movie theater and a business office. Stones and broken glass littered the streets in some areas.

The throne speech said Egypt's armed forces are to be "reorganized on a modern basis" with help of international experts and the government will do its utmost to lower the cost of living.

Prime Minister Nahas Pasha delivered the throne speech after accompanying King Farouk from Abdin Palace to Parliament. The two rode through densely crowded streets in the palace red and black Cadillac flanked by motorcycles and red jeeps with officers carrying Tommy guns.

Turn Down Demands
LONDON, Nov. 16.—(P)—With trigger-quick speed a British foreign office spokesman today turned down Egyptian demands to pull British troops from the Suez Canal zone—trade and defense lifeline to the east.

The spokesman told a news conference Britain did not recognize the Cairo government's right to upset single handedly the 1936 treaty which binds the two countries together for 20 years.

He was commenting on King Farouk's speech to the Egyptian Parliament in which the Egyptian monarch said his government no longer regards its treaty with Britain as legal.

The spokesman said Britain's "defense contacts" with Egypt "will continue."

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohammed Salah El-Din will fly to London from Lake Success next week to talk the whole thing over with Foreign Secretary Bevin.

Chinese Report 8,802 Casualties

TOKYO, Nov. 16.—(P)—The Red China radio said today North Korean troops "fighting shoulder to shoulder with Chinese volunteers" killed or wounded 8,802 United Nations troops between Oct. 25 and Nov. 8.

The radio quoted a Chinese correspondent of the official Communist news agency. He said 4,338 prisoners were taken in Red counterattacks.

A special Red communique listed casualties as: 2,894 officers and men of the U.S. First Cavalry Division's Fifth Regiment, and 48 Japanese and 5,860 South Korean troops.

General MacArthur's intelligence spokesman said he could not say whether the figures were accurate. He said the communique meant by "Japanese" there are no native Japanese with U.N. forces. And there are not enough American-born Japanese soldiers in the area to account for the casualty figure.

Boesses Night is Well Attended At Jaycee Meet

Over a hundred men attended the Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting, Thursday evening, held in the Pioneer Room over Dan's Restaurant. This was the largest attendance the Jaycees have had at any dinner meeting. This was attributed to Bosses Night. The Jaycees invited their employers as guests.

The meeting was opened with all singing "America." The invocation was given by Mayor Herb Studer. Bert Hathaway, acted as toastmaster.

A brief business session was presided over by President Bob Wall. Committee chairmen made announcements pertaining to various projects.

Roll call was answered by the members, who in turn introduced their guests. Many guests, or employers of Jaycees were from out of town.

Jaycee member, Chris Rau, who will be leaving for the armed services soon, was presented with a gift, as a token of appreciation for the services he has rendered in the Jaycee organization.

The principal speaker for the evening, Art Hasenflur, national director for Missouri of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, was introduced by Bert Hathaway.

The speaker spoke on the importance of the Jaycee organization to the bosses, and related the many benefits to the members, derived from the organization.

"I'm scared to death," said Mrs. Edythe Shelby, 41, of Waverly, Mo., who was named foreman of a federal grand jury in Kansas City, Mo., to ferret out racketeers who have concealed their incomes. Mrs. Shelby is the only woman serving on the jury. NEA Telephoto)

Winter Garb Issue in Bulk

American Forces Outran Their Supply Lines

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(P)—The army said today winter clothing had been issued in bulk to divisions in Korea between Oct. 1 and Oct. 15.

That was about a month before reports began coming in from the Korean front that many American soldiers were fighting in freezing weather without winter clothing.

Since then, the army here and in Korea has said the frontline troops should have their winter outfits by the end of this week. It was explained that American forces outran their supply lines and that, coupled with transportation difficulties, had prevented earlier deliveries.

An army spokesman, discussing the situation with reporters today at a Pentagon briefing, said that all requisitions for winter clothing from the Far East command have been filled. He said this means that the clothing has been actually delivered.

He said further that all forces sent to the Far East from the United States as units, rather than as individual replacements, took complete winter equipment with them.

"The winter clothing is designed and tested to take care of a man who is continuously in the open, day and night, in below freezing temperatures," the spokesman said.

Shoe pacs and other winter clothing also has been issued to South Korean as well as American troops, the spokesman said. The shoe pacs are large shoes, the lower part of which is made of heavy rubber and the top of leather. They are roomy enough to permit the wearer to use several pairs of socks.

Search For Two Tossed Into Sea

CHARLESTON, S.C., Nov. 16.—(P)—Coast Guard planes sighted an empty rowboat tossing on the waves off Seabrook beach today as sea and shore searches were pressed for the wife of an insurance company executive and an escort.

Searchers found no sign of Mrs. Frederick H. Eckler, 48, wife of the Metropolitan insurance company's board chairman, or James Merrill Herd, Jr., 39, of Sparta, Tenn., and New York. Herd heads the New York firm, Herd Theatrical Corp., which backs theatrical productions.

They were thrown into the ocean when their fishing boat capsized yesterday. Two companions were saved.

Bomb Explodes in Anti-Communist Quarters

ROME, Nov. 16.—(P)—A powerful time bomb exploded in the fourth floor provincial headquarters of the anti-Communist Socialist party today while officials and party workers were out to lunch.

Police said no one was injured but the offices were heavily damaged.
